[1] These tuition rates apply to all students accepted in to the professional-level of these programs only. NDSU students must submit a separate application to these departments to change from pre- to professional level.

[2] Tuition is estimated for the academic year (two semesters - Fall and Spring). Tuition is based on 12-18 credits per semester. Additional costs for summer: tuition (for 6 credits), fees, and supplies are approximately $4,700. Summer room and board costs will approximate an additional $2,500.

[3] These fees include: university activity fee, technology fee, library fee, career services, health/wellness fee, Connect ND fee, international student orientation fee, and an immigration fee.

[4] A one-time fee for all new students. This fee supports the Office of Orientation and Student Success.

[5] This estimate assumes the single student is sharing the living accommodations with another student.

[6] All students are required to purchase the mandatory state health insurance policy. This fee is charged at the beginning of each academic year and coverage is for one calendar year.

[7] Books and supplies are estimated for the academic year (two semesters – Fall and Spring). Estimates vary depending on the program and are not automatically charged to each student's account.

- Additional fees: Business minor - $100/course, Dietetics - $600/year (DPD) or $1,500/year (DEP), Education - $875 one-time initial program fee, HNES - $570/year, Interior Design - $500/year.
- Students with a spouse should add at least $7,000, $2,000 for the first dependent child and $1,000 for each additional child.
